DECISION

A7.8.3 Use of an autonomous supply tank

During a practice and the race, refueling must be carried out using the pit's autonomous supply tank bearing the number of the car and with the fuel delivered by the Organiser. It is prohibited to move the refueling rig in order to facilitate refueling operations during a car's pit stop. The pit's autonomous supply tank may only be shared between cars from the same competitor.

Penalty: at the Stewards' discretion.

The autonomous tank must remain at atmospheric pressure and at the ambient temperature.

All the tanks for the fuel stored in the pits must be capable of holding a pressure of 3 atmospheres. During the race, any refueling in the pits must be carried out using one autonomous tank per pit in conformity with the Technical Regulations in force.
